S. House of Representatives, One Hundred Fourth Congress, First Session, on September 7, 1995 The Subcommittees met at 9:38 a. m., in Room 2318 of the Rayburn House Office Building, the Honorable Steven H. Schiff, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Basic Research, presiding. Mr. Schiff. I d like to welcome everyone here to this legislative hearing. Chairman Dana Rohrabacher of the Subcommittee on Energy and Environment, and I, the Chairman of the Basic Research Subcommittee, are jointly holding this hearing on four bills which have been introduced in Congress which will, if enacted, affect the Department of Energy and our national laboratories. I want to say that Chairman Rohrabacher was gracious enough to allow me to preside over this hearing. It is, however, a joint hearing of our two subcommittees. I would, in exchange, like to recognize Chairman Rohrabacher first for an opening statement. Mr. Rohrabacher. I thank my friend from New Mexico, who has shouldered many serious responsibilities in the 104th Congress. I also thank him for the time and effort that he s put in to help arrange this hearing. This is a reflection of the high priority that he places on the future of our national labs. And this hearing also reflects the priority that this whole Committee places on the future of the labs. I am pleased that we will be able to consider a variety of proposals at this hearing. And I agree...
