Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Discourse Delivered at the Commemoration of the Landing of the Pilgrims of Maryland: Celebrated May 11, 1846, at Mt, St. Mary s, Near Emmitsburg, MD Permit me to thank you for the proof of the kind remembrance in which you have held me, by selecting me to perform, on this day, a solemn duty which we owe to the early Fathers of Maryland. The consciousness, that so many others might have been chosen from the Alumni of our common Alma Mater, better qualified to fulfil your expectations, upon this occasion, and to do justice to the theme, renders me doubly grateful for the honor which you have thus conferred upon me. Hut for me, the pleasure of this day docs not rest here, Before me and around me I see faces dear and familiar to me, upon whose features the warm smiles of other days have not grown cold in the passing of the years which have separated us. Around each well remembered form, memories arc lingering which will not soon fade away- which grateful recollection can never case to cherish. Yet, if I find much that is unchanged, much more do I find that is changed. Among those hundreds of happy College faces now turned up towards me, there arc none of those, with whom upon such an occasion as this, I was wont to take my place. Some there arc here still, but they till other scats, and wear a different garb. They have devoted themselves to a high and noble purpose. But amid these changes, the spirit of the old Mountain is unchanged. U is perennial in its life, like the evergreens...
